(a) Case 1

Use the edges of the reference image to lock in the composition and contours, generate a new image from text prompt that reimagines the scene with the style and details I describe while avoiding elements in my negative prompt.

(b) Case 2

Extend my image outward with new, coherent content that matches the original scene's style, color, and lighting. Use my text prompt to guide what appears in the extended areas, keep the original subject intact, and blend the new regions.
